But Sandro is not the man she remembers. The writing was compelling. I liked the hero. I just couldn't deal with the icicle like heroine. The book picked up midway and then my interest was caught. He came back when his father summoned him from California. He married the heroine for duty. The heroine also had her own baggage. It was beautiful though love how they heal one another. The hero was different from other heroes. This one just didn't do it for me. it was okay. but - The two main characters - I couldn't engage with them. The plot was a bit of a let down. But then thought let's see what happens. Eventually it gets better. They confessed their love. Then they had a big row because of their issues. After that the hero came to his senses. Both hero and heroine dealt with their guilt and issue. Then epilogue with their little daughter and HEA. Beautiful romance and wonderful hero and heroine. Wow great read. Loved watching these two fall in love. Cold unfeeling a true ice princess. Sandro is a very insecure hero. Liana lives with guilt regret and shame. My heart broke for her. In reality they are both thirsty for love and acceptance. {site_link}
