They meet by accident. She dreams about him afraid to face reality. She keeps it as a secret. There are some things you just can't tell anyone. Sometimes you don't even admit those things to yourself. You are too scared. It might only be our mind playing tricks with us. And like this you feel safe and secure. Until it happens all over again. And you have to listen very carefully. And when you do you will get more confused. At first you won't understand. It will take a lot of time and concentration. All you have are small pieces. Pieces you have to put together in order to understand. In order to fill that hole. In order for these coincidences deja vu to make sense. And you don't even have a guide. Some pieces you will put in the wrong place. Several times. Until you find where they belong. And then you start over with the next one. And the one after that. Until you get halfway through. You start questioning yourself. This time you work faster. Maybe you can even finish it. You are proud of yourself. But until then you only have pieces. You need to have faith. At first I did the obvious: ignored it. I thought he can't be. He was gone and wasn't coming back. Or so I thought. Of course by the time I looked back he was gone. I was pretty sure it was my imagination. I could live with that. Over and over again. Or a series rather. Or a series rather. Yes even the bad things. Just remember: my stories are all about you and you alone. Very few paragraph breaks. Mostly just inner thoughts.
