

Katahdin: Maine Murder Mysteries By William Graham In this collection of five suspenseful stories Detective Nadine McAfee investigates the murder of a boy who died in a deliberately set fire confronts the resentment of locals toward a rich philanthropist who ends up being murdered solves the murders of a college student and a washed-up screenwriter uncovers the truth about a heinous crime from forty years ago and works with a private security expert to safeguard the life of a woman targeted for assassination. Katahdin: Maine Murder Mysteries

Poet novelist and travel writer William Graham holds a BA and MA in English and a MS in Communication from Northwestern University in Evanston Illinois.

“Katahdin” is Book Three of the Maine Murder Mysteries series: “Katahdin” provides another journey into the darkest corners of humanity, Good plots by the author and the narration added to the suspense well done and enjoyed. He lives in Stowe Vermont. Collection of five haunting and unsolved crimes in this book. Given audio for my voluntary review English.