

Two-brained Terror By Annie Auerbach Two-Brains has escaped from prison again! Word Girl must find him before he perfects his latest weapon -- a ray that can turn gold into cheese! Two-brained Terror

Annie Auerbach is a speaker consultant brand strategist and the co founder of trends agency Starling which specializes in helping brands understand cultural change in order to stay relevant. Starlings clients include Pepsico Nike Google and Unilever and Auerbach was named a 2019 Timewise Power Founder on #timewisepower50 alongside a range of flex working trailblazers who are changing the future of work. Annie Auerbach is a speaker consultant brand strategist and the co founder of trends agency Starling which specializes in helping brands understand cultural change in order to stay relevant. Starling's clients include Pepsico Nike Google and Unilever and Auerbach was named a 2019 Timewise Power Founder on #timewisepower50 alongside a range of flex working trailblazers who are changing the future of work, She has worked flexibly for twenty years in many different guises—part time remote working freelancing through a portfolio career and returning to work after having her two daughters: She has worked flexibly for twenty years in many different guises—part time remote working freelancing through a portfolio career and returning to work after having her two daughters[1]

Word up! It's Word Girl! Dr. She lives in London with her family. She lives in London with her family. {site_link}.